Chapter 1: The Raven's Quill

In the dusty archives of Blackthorn Keep, copying forbidden grimoires as rain lashes the stained glass.

The rain tapped against the glass with the steady rhythm of passing years. In this room, words had weight. When they looked across the space between them, neither flinched. The story had begun long before this night, but tonight was where the silence ended.

Chapter 2: A Blade at the Throat

Rowan's silent infiltration; the dagger drawn against her pulse; sharp banter masking fatal stakes.

The rain tapped against the glass with the steady rhythm of passing years. In this room, words had weight. When they looked across the space between them, neither flinched. The story had begun long before this night, but tonight was where the silence ended.

Chapter 3: The Silver Blood Oath

A desperate magic pact sealing their fates together; the physical spark of shadow meeting steel.

The rain tapped against the glass with the steady rhythm of passing years. In this room, words had weight. When they looked across the space between them, neither flinched. The story had begun long before this night, but tonight was where the silence ended.

Chapter 4: Courtyard of Whispers

Entering the High Court as enemies pretending to be betrothed; hidden gazes and deadly smiles.

The rain tapped against the glass with the steady rhythm of passing years. In this room, words had weight. When they looked across the space between them, neither flinched. The story had begun long before this night, but tonight was where the silence ended.
